Here's how to find what Alameda County does for your community and meet students from different schools too!

The County of Alameda invites juniors and seniors of Alameda County schools to apply to the Youth Leadership Academy, a free, five-session course about County programs and services. Each 3-hour Saturday morning session provides an opportunity to meet County officials and staff, learn about the county and develop leadership skills.

We discuss what it takes to be an active participant in your community and local government and focus on the role of local government in providing needed services to the diverse communities of Alameda County. Services include Health Care, Social Services and Public Protection.

The Academy begins Saturday, October 8, 2011, 9 am - noon in the Alameda County Board of Supervisors Chambers. See the other side for all session dates: the application must be received Friday, September 23, 2011.
